

Tongchai Suansawan 2006: Organizational Commitment of Department of Corrections Officers: Nursing Profession. Master of Arts (Political Science), Major Field: Political Science, Department of Political Science and Public Administration. Thesis Advisor: Miss Lalita Soonthornvipart, M.A. 102 pages. ISBN 974-16-2182-5

The objectives of the research were to study the level of organizational commitment of Department of Corrections officers in nursing profession, to compare their organizational commitment according to personal factors and to study the relationship between job characteristics and work experience and organizational commitment. The samples composed of 215 of the Department of Corrections officers in nursing profession from the Medical Correctional Institution in Bangkok. Questionnaires were used as the tool for data and information collection and data were analyzed by using computer program. Statistical tools used for data analysis were percentage, mean, standard deviation, t-test, and One-way ANOVA at the .05 level of significance.

The results of the study indicated that the level of organizational commitment of Department of Corrections officers in nursing profession was high. The Personal factor of marital status was related to their organizational commitment. Meanwhile, job characteristics and work experience were related to their organizational commitment.

Student's signature

Thesis Advisor's signature

____ / ____ / ____

