ABSTRACT

The purposes of this investigation were to study work performance and problems on work performance of heads of district primary education offices in Loei Province. The selected subjects were 13 heads of district primary education offices, 159 primary school administrators, and 344 primary school teachers working in the reform primary schools. The questionnaires were applied to collect data. The earned data were then analyzed by a computer program to find percentage, arithmetic mean, and standard deviation.

Heads of district primary education offices highly performed their work on school administration, personnel administration, curricular and instructional processes, and administrative system. There were "less" level of problems on work performance. However, the significant problems needed urgent solutions were lacking of inexperienced teachers on special instruction and applying local curricula.
