

ABSTRACT

Thesis Title : A Legal Analysis about a Provincial Governor Election
Student's Name : Mrs.Umaporn Katachantara
Degree Sought : Master of Laws
Academic Year : 1999
Advisory Committee :

1. Assoc.Prof.Dr. Poonsak Waisamruat Chairperson
2. Assoc.Prof.Dr.Montri Rupsuwan
3. Assoc.Prof.Dr. Bhokin Phalakul

The objective of this research is to(1) research the origin of the provincial governors and their role together with their authorities (2) ideas of the provincial governor election and (3) the legal impact. The methodology of this research is to make a documentary research by emplasing an essential law concerning the administrative organization Act as well as comparing the origin and authorities with other nations which are also studied.

The result of this study found that provincial governors have been an old institution from Sukhothaithani Period to the present age. The governors of those ages occupied communities by feudalism system called "Head of Rural City" and gradually evolved to be provincial governors at present. In other countries, a person who has the highest executive power in the community may be called a prefect, prefectural governor, state governor etc., This person can come into the position either or by appointment by election. This depends on historical reasons of each country. In Thailand, the provincial bus governors are representative of the government who does not only implement the local policy supervise the local agency but also, act as a head of the local government.

The ideas to resume the position of the provincial governor are so various but the idea of provincial governor election is an interesting one. Researcher does not agree with the idea that most governors act in a military style. The said idea does not in accordance with administration, and impact of legal such as a group of Bill are proposed, a problem of unity of command lacking, a problem of a civil servant status, and a problem of interior security should be scrutinized.

The researcher commends that the government should allocate the self-government power, natural resource management and education, Also the rather than as provincial governor should adapt his role and act an administer than governor a manager than a commander, a controller than airector, a co-ordinator than supervisor, and finally, be a man with broad vision.