The objectives of this research are twofold ; firstly, to compare the effectiveness of Community Police Project in Songchun village and in Sumrongnua village, and secondly, to study the factors related to the effectiveness of the project implemented in both villages.

The research finding are as follows :

1. The Community Police Project implemented in Songchun village is more effective than in Sumrongnua village.

2. The quality of implementators is the factor related to the effectiveness of the Community Police Project in Songchun village and Sumrongnua village at the significant level 0.003

3. The quality of the implementators in both villages is low which means that both villages need implementators who are more qualified

4. People ' s acceptance of the Community Police Project, understanding and ability to convert objectives into actions, quantity and quality of materials and instruments, as well as people ' s cooperation are factors not related to the effectiveness of the Community Police Project implementation in Songchan village and Sumrongnua village.

According to these findings, it is suggested on improving the quality of project implementators working in both villages.
