The purpose of this research was to develop a Thai Language Instruction Program Using Literature-based Approach for Prathom Suksa One Students. The subjects were twenty Prathom Suksa One students from Ban Nong-Jan school, King Amphoe Nong-Hee , Changwat Roi Et , second semester, academic year 1997.

The research results were as follows : 1) by the end of experiment, the students' levels of composing a story, reading satisfaction and writing satisfaction were higher significantly than the levels in the beginning of the experiment at the level .01 ; 2) by the end of the experiment, 100 percent of the students were in the higher levels of composing a story, reading satisfaction and writing satisfaction significantly than the levels in the beginning of the experiment.

The revised program was instructional experiences provided based on literature-based approach as an afterschool program, between 2.30p.m.-4.30p.m. The 8 activities plans, each based on one story, were designed to be used for about 6-8 weeks, 5 days per week. The program consisted of assumption, theoretical approach, objectives, target group, elements : literature, instructional activities, learning atmosphere and evaluation, and implementation process.

The program materials included 1) a set of 6 program implementation manuals, 2) 8 activities plans, and 3) evaluation instruments : a student portfolio, an evaluation form on language ability of an individual student, and an evaluation form on language ability of the whole class.
