This research proposed to study the style and direction of housing expanding, especially physical and factor to housing development are directive in planning and development because of housing expansion.

The result found that the style of housing in central of city will have character the construction in vertical to resident and make business according to land costing increase. The readiness of Public Utility System, the building and rehabilitation is the factor to make style of housing have changed. Housing in suburb area is constructed in horizon and have new community in area by having the communication jointed the growing between urban and suburb.

In housing location found that the most need the readiness in other factors near work resources, market, the convenient communication and have basic structure system to be convenience in do business.

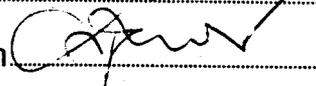

Housing development of municipal area in new expanding have a problem in Public Utility System and building and rehabilitation are not enough. Government should allocate the plan and develop suitable to carry the growing of urban to suburb in future.
