The Protection For Motor Vehicle Accident Victims Act 1992 was enacted with the purpose of aiding the vehicle accident victims to get remedies right away without offence proved first. Although this law has the objective to secure the remedies for damage to any persons who use the roads. The said law still has problems and defects which should be solved. This thesis has considered the fairness of the insured, vehicle accident victims, and insurance companies including with laws, rules and notifications.

This Thesis analyses the problems of enforcement of laws which are about the provision of laws, policy and enforcement of laws by Insurance Department, superintendent organization. From those, I would like to propose the guidance to solve the said problem as follows :

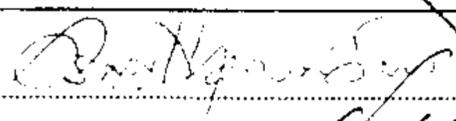

1) In short-term period, the problems proposed to solve are about the rate of insurance fees, preliminary compensation, remedy for damage, compelling the vehicle owner to insure any accidents and construction of law.

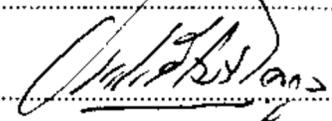

2) Amendment of existing laws for appropriate protection to the vehicle accident victims, it is proposed to establish the organization functioning as an insurer and paying compensation to victims as well as to solve the overlapping problems on remedy for damage to the victims.
