Thailand parole volunteer probation officer falls within the responsibility of the Correction Department following to the Correction Department Act of B.E.2479 and the Correction Department Order of B.E. 2533 amended by the Order of B.E.2535. There are many crucial problems from the enforcement of the law concerning the parole volunteer probation officer, such as the ambiguous status of person required by law, including the benefits and any rights and immunity form liability flowing from the duty on his funtions. During to the role of assistant parole probation officcer to supervise the offenders who are left in the community in order to be rehabilitated themselves and to influence the public attitude for the promotion of crime prevention and informal social control, The volunteer should be protected and controlled by the status of Assistant Parole Probation Officer following to the Correction Act of B.E.2479.

Legally, the parole volunteer probation officer should be defined as an unemployed person of the correction Department of Thailand and entitle to more benefits and rights as same as the volunteer probation officer of The Ministry of Justice. However, the fact of being an assistant official is provided by law, so it is important to revise the law concerning the parole volunteer probation officer in order that volunteer can only be an assistant official in duty on his funtions of rehabilitation the offenders and performing the role of informal social control in the community.
