The research has the objective to study and analyse the exiting of Thai laws related to the garbage plastic problems as will as to find out foreign direction and legal measures dealing with the problems.

The result of the study comes out that, at p^resent, the contents of the laws are limited and ineffictive enough to deal with the plastic garbage problems. These due to the main purpose of the laws do no deal with only the plastic garbage problems but also with other public health management. Besides though some laws authorised local authorities to issue subordinate law to solve the plastic garbage problems, such subordinate laws still need special technique and knowledge for the issuance of the laws which the local authorities have less capacities.

It has recommended that it should have appropriate specific law which has the legal measures to solve such problems. The legal measures of U.S.A. and Germany should be adopted. The measures should cover the system of deposit and redemption of plastic container; the industrial operator should identify the type of plastic appeared on the products; and provide quotas for plastic recycle.
