This research is aimed for the study of the concepts, legal principles and other measures in protecting children from domestic violence both in Thailand and abroad. Also, this research is aimed for the study of the problem arises from the application of such measures to the offender of whom having relation between offender and prey.

From the research, it is found that there are many mistaken points about the protection measures for the children from the domestic violence both in criminal and civil measures. It is therefore proposed as follows :

1. In criminal case which domestic violence is committed by parents or guardians, the case should be under the jurisdiction of the Juvenile and Family Court.
2. In case that the children are nearly in danger or is believed to be in danger, the measure of safety should be applied to
3. The government sections ie. Department of Public Welfare, private sectors, non-governmental organization offically recognized by the government to be specified to have authorities for depriving the parental right.
4. To be clearly specifying the concerned professions as a reporting persons of the abovementioned matters to the responsible authority who will report directly to the public-prosecutor in order to deprive the parental right or to apply any possible measures to protect children
