The measure for treatment of offenders by using Community Service under Section 56 of Thai Penal Code is a measure making offenders serve the public with various kinds of working for community or public benefit organization on free of charge within a period under discretion of the Court of Justice. The objective of this measure is to rehabilitate both behaviour and mental of the offenders by creating their responsibility to the society.

As a matter of fact, fixing a suitable work for a suitable offender is main purpose of Community Service but it still needs some factors for effective achievement.

The result getting from this research is that Community Service can serve the present objective of Criminal Justice Administration. However, there are some problems on using this measure as different concepts among Criminal Justice Agencies or lacking of legal provision to serve the said measure but they can be solved in the near future.
