

Abstract

The Thesis entitled, "The Strategies to Develop the Role of 'Community Based Rehabilitation Volunteer for Disabled People in Domestic Condition : A Study of Provincial Social Development and Human Security Office in Central Province", aims to study the missions of Community Based Social development Volunteers for Disabled People in order to investigate the problems along the working process, the opinion of volunteers toward the home-based rehabilitation for disabled people. Data has been collected from 169 volunteers who are working on home-based rehabilitation for Disabled People, Questionnaire were used as the method of collecting the data and analyzed by statistical method using frequency, percentage, Mean, Standard Diviation. t-test and F-test

The findings indicated that the majority volunteers worker are female, married and aged between 41-50 years old. The educational background is secondary school level, and they earn their living with income between 6,001-7,000 baht/month. Most of them have experienced in working as home-based rehabilitation volunteer for 1-5 years. The missions of volunteer are highly focused on sustaining the disabled people in home-based rehabilitation. especially, a mission on giving a consultation to disabled people, and supporting the disabled people to rely on themselves, and also on co-operating and referring the cases. the problems in working is that there was short of time. and working system in the organization, supporting from the community, and the potentiality of the volunteer workers. Inview of volunteer workers toward Community Based Social development Volunteers for Disabled they agree that management is important at highest level , and next is public relation, knowledge and training of volunteer workers.

Recommendation is that the Ministry of Social Development and Human Security should define clearly the function of volunteer workers. The public relation, followed up, supervision to volunteer workers should be emphasized .