

SIRIPORN OPASAWATCHAI : RELATIONSHIPS BETWEEN PERSONAL BACKGROUNDS
AND COPING BEHAVIOR OF PSYCHIATRIC NURSE IN RENDERING NURSING CARE.
THESIS ADVISOR : ASST.PROF. JINTANA YUNIBHAND, Ph.D.146 PP.

The purpose of this research was to study the relationships between personal backgrounds and coping behavior of psychiatric nurse in rendering nursing care.

The major findings were followed :

1. There was no relationship between the position , experience in psychiatric hospital, educational background in psychiatric nursing and coping behavior of psychiatric nurse in rendering nursing care.
2. There was a positive significant relationship at the .05 level between life events and coping behavior-problem solving style of psychiatric nurse in rendering nursing care. On the other hand, there was no significant relationship between life events and coping behavior of psychiatric nurse.