

KORSAK CHENSAMUDSIN : INVESTIGATION AND PROCEDURE OF PRIVATE PRACTISING LAWYERS' ETHICS CASE. THESIS ADVISORS : ASST.MOORATA WATANASHEEVAKUL, PROF.DR.VISANU KRUENGAM, 306 PP. ISBN 974-581-128-9

The Investigation and Procedure of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Cases are disciplinary measures against a member after a breach of the Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Act, with the Law Society acting as the state's representative invested with public power to supervise lawyers' ethics. The relationship between the Law Society and its members is one of a compulsory nature as empowered by the law. Consequently, in the conduct of the Procedure of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Case there are the characters of administrative cases, i.e. the same, basic philosophical concept, style and procedure as those of administrative cases.

This research study was aimed at learning about the standards of investigations and procedures of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Case overseas by means of studying and comparing with those in France, England and the United States of America and Then studying and analyzing with a view to learn about problems, defects and errors arising in connection with the investigation and procedure of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Cases in Thailand, the examination of which may be Devided into three parts:

- a. The part dealing with the basic philosophical concept and the individuality of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Cases.
- b. The part dealing with organization and personnel, i.e. factors, qualifications and independency of the committee in charge of the Investigation and Procedure of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Cases under the Lawyers Society Act B.E. 2528 (A.D.1985)
- c. The part dealing with the rules and steps in the Procedure of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Cases under the Lawyers Society Act B.E. 2528. (A.D.1985)

Finally, the writer concluded and recommended ways of establishing the standards of the Investigation and Procedure of Private Practising Lawyers' Ethics Cases in all of the aspects of organization, personnel and procedure so as to demonstrate part of an effort to push for a system of investigating and trying Private Practicising Lawyers' Ethics Cases in Thailand in order to establish the standard, desirable style and procedure to meet the spirits intentions and objectives of Thai laws as much as possible.