The objective of this research was to study the outcome of the usage of training project for developing efficiency of caregivers in slum day care centres, Bangkok Metropolis.

The outcome of this research, discovered that caregivers were capable in teaching after training because they had used the knowledge which obtained from training, chief of centre was more satisfied of their job-performance after their training than before training. Also, they left efficiency to be model for the less because caregivers who did not undergo training would immitate the teaching procedures of the ones who had trained.
