The purpose of this research was to study the ethic understanding of upper secondary school students in Bangkok Metropolis. The researcher constructed a set of test on ethic understanding which was sent to 576 upper secondary school students who were selected by multi-stage stratified random sampling from 16 government schools in Bangkok Metropolis. The obtained data were analyzed by means of arithmetic mean. The findings were as follows:

1. The upper secondary school students had high ethic understanding in four aspects: social responsibility, discipline, economy and harmlessness and the upper secondary school students had average ethic understanding on eight aspects: self responsibility, honesty, gratefulness, generosity, engaging for their own accomplishment, respect for their own opinion and the other person's opinion, courage for good deed-resistance against bad deed, and tolerance.

2. The students in Mathayom Suksa 4, 5 and 6 had high ethic understanding in four aspects: social responsibility, discipline, economy and harmlessness but only Mathayom Suksa 4 students had low ethic understanding on respect for their own opinion and the other person's opinion.
