The Study on “Guideline on Resolution for Community Welfare Management of Community Welfare Fund in Nam Kian Sub-District, Phu Phiang District, Nan Province”, the qualitative research. The purposes are to study characteristics of Community Welfare Fund including problems on welfare management and resolution for managing Community Welfare Fund of Nam Kian Sub-District, Nan Province.

From past to present, the success factor for Community Welfare Fund of Nam Kian Sub-District was the process to create sustainable success. This process covered creating power to deal with problems occurring in community by groups of people, and creating common beliefs of community members on helpfulness. The main purpose of the Community Welfare Fund Management of Nam Kian Sub-District was saving enhancement which focused on saving of members, not borrowing. Guidelines on resolving community problems to strengthen the Community Welfare Fund were public hearing, participation, social measures used as local rules, leaders dealing with problems, including relationship establishment from conducting activities together, learning groups, development. This was to strengthen the community.

The recommendations for a next study are that community welfare patterns should be studied by scrutinizing welfare issues. The study should cover understanding problems and needs of people, including roles and capabilities of people and organizations relating to welfare management. Possible guidelines on welfare development by community should be included. This will lead to integrated welfare management by developing partners and case studies on communities in regions should be conducted in order to compare the welfare management of communities in regions.
