I would like to express my deepest gratitude to my advisor Assistant Professor Jirada Singkhonrat for her enthusiasm, guidance and support throughout this project. I am very grateful to all members of the academic staff of the chemistry department at Thammasat University.

I must thank my parents, and younger brother. They were always supporting me and encouraging me with their best wishes.

Finally, I could not make it without the help from Thammasat research grant for Master Degrees for financial support.
