This paper could not have been successfully completed without the great help as well as support from a variety of people. All the executives who are the respondents of this research are among the first group of people that the researcher would like to convey sincere thanks. The questionnaires would not have been distributed without the help from some officials of the five related organizations, which are the Department of Civil Aviation, Thai Airways International, Airports of Thailand, Aeronautical Radio of Thailand, Civil Aviation Training Center, and International Civil Aviation Organization, who helped the researcher distribute the questionnaires according to the numbers allocated to each organization. Special thanks, also, must be given to Asst. Prof. Vilaivan Aroonmanakun who gave the researcher many helpful and useful recommendations utilized in the study.

Finally, the researcher also conveys a million of thanks to Mr. Sahadee Mustapa for his warm encouragement throughout the whole period of my study.
