

ABSTRACT

Title of Research Paper : Political Attitude of Middle Class Thai-Muslim Toward an Image of Good Governance Government Relating to the Aspect of Efficient Rules and Regulations of the 2540 B.E. Political Reformed Constitution : A Case Study of Satun Province

Author : Mr.Charan Sanboo

Degree : Master of Arts (Social Development)

Year : 2001

The study of political attitude of middle class Thai-Muslim toward an image of good governance government relating to the aspect of efficient rules and regulation of the 2540 B.E. political reform constitution : A case study of Satun province had the purpose to understand the facts if direction of political attitude of middle class Thai-Muslim was in positive or negative toward an image of good governance government relation to the aspect of efficient rules and regulations of the 2540 B.E. political reformed constitution and to understand what kinds of factors effected to positive or negative attitude. Questionnaires were used to collect data from 400 middle class Thai-Muslim in Satun province.

Result of the study had found that more than 65.5 percent of middle class Thai-Muslim who were the samples of study had positive attitude toward an image of good governance government relating to the aspect of efficient rules and regulations of the 2540 B.E. political reformed constitution which 34.5 percent had negative attitude.

Factors relating to directions of political attitude had formal that the attitude of sample who had some experiences of political orientation, political socialization, democratic ideology and believed in the efficient of election management was more positive than the attitude of those who lacked of these experiences or the attitude of the other groups.

(4)

Suggestions :

Government and Election Committee should support and encourage political training projects. They may hold the projects by themselves or support local administration organizations and people organization to run the projects. Meanwhile political parties should frequently conduct political activities in order to include people to political socialization processes.