I will always be grateful to my advisor, Prof. Robert T. Green, Ph.D., not only for his patience and hours of invaluable guidance on my research, but also for his consistent encouragement and care during my entire doctoral program. I would also like to express my sincere grateful to my co-advisor, Assoc. Prof. James E. Nelson, Ph.D. for his outstanding research methodology guidance and his rigorous statistical analysis support to this dissertation. Without both of them, this dissertation would never have been successfully completed.

I am also grateful to Prof. Tasman Smith, D.Phil (Oxon), former Chairman of the Doctoral Program in Marketing, Thammasat Business School, Thammasat University, who has given me an ample room to commence in scholarly environment.

I am very appreciative of the full support that I received from Assoc. Prof. Ruth Banomyong, Ph.D., former Director of the Doctoral Program in Marketing, Thammasat Business School, Thammasat University and Assoc. Prof. Fredric William Swierczek, Ph.D., Director of the Doctoral Program in Business, Thammasat Business School, Thammasat University.

My special appreciation goes to my fellow doctoral students for their supports and willingness to help me whenever I need assistance.

I am greatly indebted to Assoc. Prof. Sirivan Serirat for her warm kindness offering lovely accommodation and wonderful hospitality during my stay in Bangkok.

I am also deeply grateful to my husband and my son not only for their patience with my long-term study, but also for their unconditioned support and sacrifice throughout my study. Furthermore, this long journey would not have been success without valuable encouragement from my Dad, Mom, all sisters and a wonderful brother. All of them are good supporters.

I would like to acknowledge the generous scholarship from my work place, Faculty of Management Science, Khon Kaen University.

Finally, I would like to thank those managers in exporting firms in Thailand who generously participated in this study.
