

Rungnapha Punyanudaj 2014 : A Model for Management of Workplace Apprentice Network of Student in Vocational Education Colleges under the Commission of Vocational Education Administration. Doctor of Education (Educational Administration), Major Field: Educational Administration, Department of Education. Thesis Advisor: Assistant Professor Kanda Sakulthanasakdi Moore, Ed.D. 256 pages.

The objectives of this study are firstly, to study the current state, problems and the trend for management of workplace apprentice network of student in Vocational Education Colleges under the Commission of Vocational Education. Secondly is to develop a model of management networks in a workplace of students in Vocational Education Colleges under the Commission of Vocational Education. Last, to evaluate the suitability and feasibility model of management network in a workplace of student in Vocational Education Colleges under the Commission of Vocational Education.

The research has been conducted as descriptive research by using quantitative data and qualitative data. The quantitative data is derived from sampling of 360 people. The qualitative data is derived from the collecting data by interview 6 key performances in vocational education and focus group of 12 key performances.

The research found that the current state and problems of management of apprentice networks which was the area of planning, management, leading and monitoring and assessment the apprentice networks were rating as "high" for overall of practice, as well as, it were rating as "high" in each item. For the problem aspect, it were rating "least" for overall and also rating "least" for each item. The analysis result of trend of management of workplace apprentice networks of students were; They should conducts the conference oftenly between college and workplace for structure and system planning, also imposing the objectives, the process of work, and the monitoring and assessment apprentice networks in order to encourage the proper student's professional skills of work. For leader, they should have the clear view and unity of management apprentice network, so as, having the good leading direction and conflict management. For monitoring and assessment of apprentice networks, they should have the precise and clear indicator for taking the result to analyse in the future. There were 3 main elements of suitability and possibility model for management of workplace apprentice networks of students in vocational education colleges under the commission of vocational education; 1) The basic idea, principles, objectives of model 2) Elements of management of workplace apprentice networks composed of apprentice networks planning, apprentice network management, leadership of administrator, monitoring and operation and 3) The successful condition are composed of personal factor, budget factor and policy factor.

---

Student's signature

---

Thesis Advisor's signature