

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In composing this Independent Study, I have, all along, aspired to obtain contributive and constructive data to improve the incessant non-fulfillment of business English education in Thailand. Along the way, throughout the stages of research study development, several people have been a continuous source of inspiration and helpful criticism to me; I wish to mention their names here so that we shall not forget and that we shall keep their indelible contributions in mind.

Prior to all, I feel most fortunate to have had the chance to work with Assistant Professor Virasuda Sribayak, my advisor, whose contagious enthusiasm often drove me into wide awakening when I slacked off and lagged behind for some time through the lengthy process of her advice. I am deeply grateful for her contribution.

I am grateful for all opportunities for discussion with one of my classmates, Napassanan Unkaew. As I talked through my plans or grappled with issues for much of the chapter, she gave me robust feedback and trenchant comments which were immensely stimulating and proved extremely useful. This Independent Study has been made possible by her generous assistance. I wish to acknowledge of contribution of another classmate, Panicha Ingkakul. I have been incredibly lucky with her friendliness and encouragement. She listened to me when I had a tough time of it. She supported my endeavors. Her collaborative effort has been immeasurable.

My deepest gratitude goes to my parents; the couple, with only compulsory education, who have labored painstakingly in consideration of my requisite education which has clearly instilled in me the cultivation of intellectual development as a practical person, at the present time. Their impoverished lifetime and never-lasting endeavors have nurtured many enriching memories. Under their nurturance, I was warm and secure. This is the reason why I am so proud of being a son of the ordinary couple but greatest in my heart. I also owe a debt of gratitude to Pattarajittra Pitchayawisitkul, my younger sister who has managed to assist me to run my business, particularly, when I was not available in my office. My thanks to Nong Mata, my niece whose genial smiles and laughs always invigorate me, especially, when I am exhausted and in desperation. Finally, when I was not available at my office, my employees still discharged earnestly their responsibilities. To all these people, I offer my profound attitude.
