The United Nations General Assembly Resolution 3058 (XXVIII) of 2 November 1973.¹

3058 (XXVIII). Protection of journalists engaged in dangerous missions in areas of armed conflict

The General Assembly,

Recalling its resolutions 2673 (XXV) of 9 December 1970 and 2854 (XXVI) of 20 December 1971, in which it expressed its conviction that there was a need for an additional humanitarian international instrument to ensure the better protection of journalists engaged in dangerous missions in areas where an armed conflict was taking place,

Recalling also its decision of 12 December 1972 to include the item in the agenda of its twenty-eighth session and to consider it a matter of high priority,²

Aware that the provisions of the humanitarian conventions at present in force do not cover certain categories of journalists engaged in dangerous missions in areas of armed conflict and do not correspond to their present needs,

Having examined, article by article, the draft articles of a convention proposed by Australia, Austria, Denmark, Ecuador, Finland, France, Iran, Lebanon, Morocco and Turkey,³ as well as some related amendments,

Taking also into account that the Diplomatic Conference on the Reaffirmation and Development of International Humanitarian Law Applicable in Armed Conflicts will
