

ABSTRACT

TE132806

Physical data analysis by computer is most importance for scientific research nowadays. The measuring physical data are obtained from difference sensor and each sensor product unique characteristic data output. This research presents a data interfacing board for physical measuring data, which can be use to interchange measuring physical data between many sensors and computer. Moreover, the interfacing board can be controlled by any PC computer.