

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

First and foremost, this mini-thesis would not have been completed without the help of Dr. Tavidia Kamolvej, my advisor, who dedicated her time in giving me many ideas, guidelines, and comments at every step of my research. Also, I would like to offer my gratitude to all MIR staff who have consistently assisted me both directly and indirectly throughout my work and my time on campus.

I would like to offer my sincere gratitude to all interviewees, Assoc. Prof. Ph.D. Boonlert Supadhiloke, Chairman of MACA Program, Bangkok University, Mr.Kavi Chongkittavorn, an assistant group editor of Nation Multimedia Group, Ms. Wanna Vuthiaporn, Director of Internaional Cooperation Division, the Government Public Relations Department, Assoc. Prof. Ph.D. Ubonrat Siriyuvasak, department of Mass Communication, faculty of Communication Arts, Chulalongkorn University, Mr. Chavarong Limpattamapanee, Secretary General, the National Press Council of Thailand, Mr. James Gomez, a democracy professional and practitioner in Singapore, and Mr. Chun Kiat, a journalist, Asahi Shimbun, Singapore Bureau, who shared their experience and gave me many new and valuable information and points of view on my research issue.

I cannot forget my best friend, Ms. Nattaporn Onhiransakul, who has always been a part of my life and has from the beginning of my research always stood by me whenever I mentally needed her to help me struggle through a hard time. Finally, I would like to express all of my gratitude to my parents and my family who have been very patient and unconditionally supportive of my studies and in my life.
