

Abstract

This research aimed to study the opinions of the students at Phranakhon Rajabhat University about their required qualities. The research results will be used as the guidelines on developing them to be accepted by the society.

Their opinions about the required qualities of the students at Phranakhon Rajabhat University were found at a moderate level. Having considered their personality, academic and moral, it indicated that their personality and academic were also found at a moderate level, while their moral was found at a high level. Having considered each items of their personality, it showed that self-confidence and cheerfulness possessed the average highest level, while aggressiveness gained the average lowest level. For their academic, possession of reasons for decision making possessed the average highest level, while mathematics for calculating gained the average lowest level. For their moral, respect and honor of other people possessed the average highest level, while punctuality gained the average lowest level .

Key Words: Students' qualities, Students, Phranakhon Rajabhat Universities