Table for mapping between semantic roles and syntactic relations

Syntactic Relations	Semantic Roles	Explanation
main	-	main element: main nucleus of the sentence; usu. main verb of the main clause qtag	-	tag question
v-ch	-	verb chain: auxiliaries + main verb pm	-	preposed marker: grammatical marker of a subordinated clause. The marker (subordinating conjunction) itself doesn't have a syntactic function in the subordinated clause.
pcomp	OBJ	prepositional complement: the head of a nominal construction (NP or non-finite clause or nominal clause) that, together with a preposition, forms a prepositional phrase. Usually a preposition precedes its complement, but also topicalised complements occur.
phr	-	verb particle: certain preposition-adverb homographs that form a phrasal verb with a verb

subj	AGNT	subject: the head of an NP that agrees in number with the verb in the clause. Often signals the semantic category called agent.
agt	-	agent: The agent by-phrase in passive sentences.
obj	OBJ	object: the head of the other main nominal dependent of transitive verbs (and ditransitive verbs, together with indirect objects)
comp	OBJ	subject complement: the head of the other main nominal dependent of copular verbs.
dat	OBJ	indirect object: Ditransitive verbs can take three nominal dependents: subject, indirect object, object.
oc	OBJ	object complement: a nominal category that occurs along with an object for object complementiser verbs.
copred	-	copredicative
com	-	comitative
