ABSTRACT

My art thesis, entitled "Power of Fighting", was conceived with the notion that the power of fighting is omnipresent. This power is the essence for survival in every creature that exists in nature. As an artist, I can touch and be touched by such power from my own cognition as well as from other people. Through the process of self - image and semi - abstract art work, I translated my feelings, via the fighting between chickens and snakes, in order to reflect the "power of fighting".
