Kaeng Krachan National Park:

Kaeng Krachan National Park was established in 1981, it is a largest national park in Thailand, with 1,821,875 rai (2,915 square kilometers) of forest in the watersheds of the Phetchaburi and Pranburi rivers. It includes portions of Amphur Nong Ya Plong, Amphur Kaeng Krachan, and Amphur Tha Yang in Phetchaburi Province and of Amphur Hua Hin in Prachuab Khirikhan Province.

Kaeng Krachan National Park

The Kaeng Krachan area includes a reservoir lake, beautiful scenery, waterfalls, caves, mountains. It is almost entirely covered with evergreen forest, which supports ecologically, economically and scientifically valuable plants and animals, including many wild elephants.

The park is an excellent place for recreation and education, and it is carefully protected in accordance with the wishes of His Majesty King Bhumipol. It is an important part of Thailand's national heritage.

History

Kaeng Krachan dam, at the middle of the eastern border of the National Park, was the first earth dam ever constructed in Thailand, more than 30 years ago. Its reservoir is fed by a forested watershed which extends to the Tenasserim Crest, the mountain range dividing the watersheds of the Gulf of Siam and the Andaman Sea. His Majesty King Bhumipol Adulyadej has visited the site many times, both before and after the construction of the dam. He has always been very concerned about the conservation of this watershed area, as indicated in his speech of October 29, 1979: "In Phetchaburi watershed forest, the officers must guard against deforestation, illegal logging or cultivation, because they cause drought."

The National Park was designated on June 12, 1981; its original borders encompassed 1.5 million rai. On April 20, 1983, Thalerng Thamrongnawasawad, Permanent Secretary of the Ministry of Agriculture and Cooperatives, presided over the official opening ceremony. On December 27, 1984, the park area was extended, as proposed by the Hua Hin Environmental Conservation Group, to cover the boundary between Phetchaburi and Prachuab Khirikhan Provinces, bringing the total area to over 1.8 million rai.

Geography

Kaeng Krachan is located on the eastern slope of the Tenasserim Mountain Range at the border of Burma (Myanmar). It occupies the western half of Phetchaburi Province (Amphur Kaeng Krachan and Amphur Nong Ya Plong) and a portion of northern Prachuab Khiri Khan Province (Amphur Hua Hin).

The park is composed of two major watersheds. About half of the area drains to the Phetchaburi River, which flows to Kaeng Krachan dam at the eastern edge of the park and then down through farmland to the provincial capital of Phetchaburi. The southern half of the park drains to the Pranburi River, which flows south to the Pranburi dam and then on to the town of Pranburi in Prachuab Khiri Khan province. Because of abundant rainfall and undisturbed forest cover in these watersheds, the streams, waterfalls and rivers of Kaeng Krachan flow year-round.

The nearest cities to the park are Phetchaburi Town, the market town of Tha Yang, and the resort cities of Cha-Am and Hua Hin. The park is located about 240 kilometers from Bangkok. Only two roads are maintained within the park. One leads to the Pala-u Waterfall in the southern part of the park, the other enters the forest 20 kilometers away from headquarters, and continues for 35 kilometers westward into heart of the park near Khao Panoen Thung.

The steep terrain of Kaeng Krachan makes it very difficult to travel within the forest. The rivers have cut deep valleys through sandstone to the underlying granite. Some limestone deposits occur, primarily in the Pranburi river basin. Khao Panoen Thung, at 1,207 meters, is the tallest peak entirely within the park. It is a dome of granite resistant to the erosion which has removed the sandstone around it. The highest point in the park is a peak along the Burmese border, at 1500 meters.

Special Trip

Program : by your request..!

This is a customized trip program for everyone who is a hardcore nature lover. We organize this program to fulfill the nature experience in Kaeng Krachan Rain Forest, and during the trip we will mix in every kind of available activities and also by your requests.... trekking, bird-butterfly-wildlife watching, camping and so on....!

These may be the best program and we'd like to recommend them to everyone, can we tell you, why? Because the Kaeng Krachan National Park is a wide and large area with plenty of nature, so a trip like this is not feasible in 1 or 2 days, in our experience it will take at least 4 days for you to explore the park, Please make bookings 15 days in advance and we will plan your trip for you.

Sincerely
Special Trip Program .:

Trekking in Kaeng Krachan National Park.

With a big mountain range in The Kaeng Krachan National Park at 2,914.70 Sq.kms, there are so many different trails to try as treks, because of our 20 years of experiences, we know the area and are able to guide you around and we know the best trails to take, depending on the seasons.

The Phetchaburi River is originated here and The Panoen Thung Camp area and The Ban Krang Camp area are the most interesting to enjoy trekking: 3 creeks at Ban Krang Camp and the jungle trails to the waterfall, surrounded by tall trees, birds and wildlifes, day or night. This is a part of the forest where there are many trails to try and conquer, and can witness the wildlife's habitat and also their salticks.

Whenever you visit Panoen Thung Camp, you'll be treated to a panoramic view of the mountain layers and the foggy misty sea.. a must see..!

we also do treks to the Tor Tip Waterfall (9 levels) where the Phetchaburi River is originated. You can always rely on our friendly staff to meet your daily needs. NO WORRIES...! We'll take care of you.

BIRD WATCHING in Kaeng Krachan National Park.

There are many species of bird and animal from several zoogeographic zones residing altogether in Thailand. Comparing to our neighbourhood countries, Thailand has a unique outstanding zoogeography as situated in the middle of the Oriental region, which is geographically called Indo-Chinese Sub-Region, a zone that supports various kinds of bird species.

Kaeng Krachan National Park is one of the best locations for birding site in Thailand, also of Southeast Asia. There are many of Thai and foreign birdwatchers visit this place. Kaeng Krachan is also one of the significant birding tour programs that birdwatchers shouldn't miss.

Thailand supported 989 species of bird or 10% from all species of bird in the world. The best time for birding is from October till February. It's the most suitable time for bird watching in Thailand, because many of those, which have their origins in Pale-arctic Region in Northern Asia, usually migrates to resident and retreat in Thailand. The winter-retreated birds are normally called Non-breeding Visitors. In this season, both Thai and foreign birdwatchers are quite excited about the numbers of bird species found in Thailand, it will be double! In rainy or dry season, many kinds of the migrants come to build their nest and laid their eggs. They are called "Breeding Visitor".

In 2009, there are more than 420 species of birds found in Kaeng Krachan National Park. The Park is counted as the preserved forest that supports the maximum number a founding of birds in Thailand. It is about 50 % of recorded birds in Thailand, Kaeng Krachan also have an outstanding feature that there is no location like, as it is both a reproductive source of those northern and southern birds. Thus, it supports the most various kinds of birds in the country. You can find not only the northern and southern birds in the same place, but also those in lowland forest like Giant Pitta, Crested Jay and those in highland like Rusty-naped Pitta, Flavescent Bulbul Importantly, because of the various geographical conditions; lake, waterfall, grass field, forest-skirt, dry forest and evergreen forest, Kaeng Krachan National Park contains, therefore, all categories of various bird species like City Bird, Water Bird, Paddy field Bird and Forest Bird can be seen in this site. Nowadays, the new found birds are continually reported and tentatively increased. Many kinds of birds are found unbelievably, such as Giant Pitta, Rufous-collared Kingfisher, Chestnuts Napped Forktail and White-fronted Scops-Owl. Besides, the superstar that becomes the symbolic of this place is Racket-tailed Treepie, which can be found here. It is every birdwatcher's dream when they visit this site.

Phetchaburi City Tour.

Getting to know Phetchaburi

Phetchaburi or Muang Phet is not all that far from Bangkok. It is conveniently reached by car or by train. Phetchaburi has a real variety of tourist spots. Temples and palaces are the center of superb architectural and artistic work emulated by younger generations. The local way of life is still seen at the marketplace and the fishing communities by the mouth of the Phetchaburi River at the Gulf of Thailand and in all rural areas. All coastal beaches are good for swimming, relaxing, or dining on fresh seafood at reasonable price. A wildlife walking trail along a natural route in the mangrove forest is an attractive option.

For adventurous travelers who wish to take in nature first hand, Kaeng Krachan Forest is a perfect representative of the rich western forest and it is a place for bird and butterfly watching for amateurs and professionals alike.

Exploring Phetchaburi City of Art and Cultural Masterpieces

Program: At 08.00 am. Be ready at Rabieng Rinnum Restaurant.

Start by visiting Wat Yai Suwannaram, this temple was built in the Ayutthaya period, with beautiful wall painting (mural) in the Ubosot and Sala Kanparian. Leave Wat Yai Suwannaram and then go to Wat Kamphaeng Laeng, The biggest and oldest historical site in Phetchaburi. The Prasat or Prang Siralaeng is architecturally influenced by the Khmer of the Bayon period.

From Wat Kamphaeng Laeng then to Wat Ko Kaeo Sutharam, this temple was built in the Ayutthaya period. Wat Ko Kaeo is next to Phant Charoen Road. It was built in the period of King Rama V. Enjoy seeing Ban Chang Thong (goldsmith), the last house of its kind left now-adays. Have lunch at Rabieng Rinnum Restaurant by Phetchaburi riverside (your own pay). Touch the feeling of the old Thai-style house which has a roof without gable (Panhya). After lunch we will take you to pray for 'Phra Buddha Thewarit' of Ayutthaya period in Wat Mahathat Worawihan and see the stucco works of Phetchaburi's artists.

Continuing the visit at Wat Mahathat Worawihan and The Phra Nakon Khiri Historical Park (Khao Wang). Keep going up to the top of Khao Wang by cable car. The palace was built in the period of King Rama IV. It is a small palace with many halls inside and museum. Continue the trip to Khao Luang Cave, here there is a nice atmospheric feeling a fresh breeze and many Buddha Images to see. Back to Rabieng Rinnum Restaurant at 04.00 pm.

Trip Cost

1 person	2,500 bath/person	2 persons	1,600 bath/person
3 persons	1,200 bath/person	4 or more persons	950 bath/person

Includes: guide, transportation, admission fees to Historical Park, cable car.
