

ABSTRACT

The purposes of this research were to study knowledge, attitude and risk behavior about AIDS of Rajamangala Institute of Technology students, The Bangkok Commercial Campus. The research instruments were the questionnaires. Data were collected from 500 samples who are Bangkok Commercial Campus students studying in 2nd semester, 1999. The Statistics for analyzing the data were arithmetic mean, chi-square and correlation coefficient.

The results showed that ; The same amount of male and female students are between 18-20 years old. Most of them studied at diploma education and stayed with parents.

The relationship between base knowledge attitude and risk behavior about AIDS found that ; The relationship between sex and risk behavior about AIDS were significant at .05 level, The relationship between age and knowledge about AIDS, and education knowledge about AIDS were significant at .01 level, other than that were no significant at .05 level; sex with attitude and risk behavior about AIDS , age with attitude and risk behavior about AIDS, education level with attitude and risk behavior about AIDS and staying home with knowledge attitude and risk behavior about AIDS.

Key word : AIDS