

Hathairat Narksin 2007: The Juvenile's Opinion towards Family and Community Group Conferencing. Master of Arts (Political Science), Major Field: Political Science, Department of Political Science and Public Administration. Thesis Advisor: Associate Professor Jatuporn Banchuen, M.S.S., 88 pages.

The objective of this research were to study Juvenile's opinion towards family and community group conferencing. The sample for studying were 150 young people in Juvenile Observation and Protection center. The questionnaire was used as a tool for data correction and analysis. Data were analyzed by using computer program. Statistics includes percentage, means, standard deviation, t-test and One Way ANOVA analysis with statistical significance level at .05.

The results of research indicated that the opinions of juvenile towards family and community group conferencing was high. When testing hypothesis in order to compare the opinions of the sample towards family and community group conferencing. It is found living environment, family relationship and knowledge with family and community group conferencing are different. The opinions for towards family and community group conferencing is different. For sex, age, level of education, characteristic of perpetration are different. The opinions towards family and community group conferencing is not different.

---

Student's signature

---

Thesis Advisor's signature

